

PROGRAM

SUPPLY CHAIN EXECUTIVE FORUM 2006

Cypress Lakes Resort, Hunter Valley, Australia

May 17–19, 2006

SUPPLY CHAIN EXECUTIVE FORUM 2006

PROGRAM

TUESDAY MAY 16, 2006

Evening	Arrival of delegates
19:00–20:30	Welcome reception
20:00–22:00	Opening dinner

WEDNESDAY MAY 17, 2006

06:30–08:30	Breakfast
08:30–09:00	Welcome, Introductions, opening comments about Living Supply Chains
09:00–11:00	Supply chains are the business: Why not abandon conventional wisdom and discover the customer? Are supply chains better recognized these days? Or are they still largely subliminal? What about the human factor driving supply chains? Building more responsive supply chains means building more responsible enterprises overall. How do you do this? It's time to re-invent the enterprise. Panel Moderator: Prof. John Gattorna, Co-Director, Centre for Supply Chain Research, UoW
11:00–11:30	Break
11:30–13:00	Customer conversations: All pathways lead to customers. Finding new ways to 'listen' to customers. But how can we improve the 'alignment' between what customers want and the internal capabilities of the enterprise? Start by moving away from 1-dimensional solutions Panel Moderator: Ms Ming Tang, Managing Partner, Accenture, Supply Chain, ANZ
13:00–14:00	Lunch
14:00–15:30	The four generic supply chain types: How do we mix and match these different basic configurations for best results? Are there different solutions for different industries? <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Continuous replenishment supply chains: Where relationships matter most2. Lean supply chains: Focus on efficiency and lowest cost-to-serve3. Agile supply chains: Where quick response is paramount4. Fully Flexible supply chains (two variants): Where nothing is impossible Panel Moderator: Prof. Martin Christopher, Director, Cranfield Centre for Logistics & Supply Chain (UK)
15:40–16:00	Break
16:00–17:30	Private discussion among Executive teams
17:30–18:00	Living Lessons (a review of the day's sessions)
19:00–19:30	Pre-dinner drinks
20:00–22:00	Gala Dinner (off-site)

* This theme is taken from the book of the same name. Each delegate will receive a copy at the Forum

>continued next page

SUPPLY CHAIN EXECUTIVE FORUM 2006

PROGRAM

THURSDAY MAY 18, 2006

06:30–08:00 Breakfast

08:00–10:00 Transforming enterprises, from 'inside-out' and 'outside-in': What are the variables involved? Lessons learned from successful and unsuccessful change programs. Is outsourcing (in all its forms) working? Are there any viable new business models on the horizon?
Panel Moderator: Prof. Timothy Devinney,
Director, Centre for Corporate Change, AGSM

10:00–10:30 Break

10:30–12:00 Leading from the front: Converting customer insight into successful implementation. The vision and values of successful supply chain leaders.
Panel Moderator: Prof. John Gattorna,
Co-Director, Centre for Supply Chain Research, UoW

12:00–13:00 Private discussion among Executive Teams

13:00–13:30 Lunch

13:30–17:00 Afternoon of Recreation and team-building **

19:30–20:00 Pre-dinner drinks

20:00–22:00 Special Gala Dinner (Private Room), with Guest Speaker

 various options available

FRIDAY MAY 19, 2006

06:30–08:30 Breakfast

08:30–10:30 Critical issues facing supply chains: A bridge to the future: Everything from 'sustainability' to the search for talent. Creating resilient 'living institution' style supply chains is the goal.
Panel Moderator: Mr. Paul McDonald,
Executive Director, CEDA

10:30–11:00 Break

11:00–12:00 Private discussion among Executive teams

12:00–12:30 Living Lessons (A review of the day's sessions)

12:30–13:00 Concluding remarks and close

13:00– Buffet lunch and depart

Please note: this project is subject to change without notice.

SUPPLY CHAIN EXECUTIVE FORUM 2006

PROGRAM

EXPECTED OUTCOMES

This is not a training program. The aim is to help top management teams identify and work through relevant strategic and supply chain issues to extract previously untapped value.

Each team will develop a deliverable known as the “Agenda for Action”. This will provide the basis of any ongoing collaboration between the Centre for Supply Chain Research and each executive team.

We are serious about our role as catalysts for change across supply chains in Asia Pacific.

ADVANCED ADVICE – SAVE THESE DATES

SUPPLY CHAIN EXECUTIVE FORUM 2007
IS SCHEDULED FOR MAY 16–18, 2007